Overseas Delivery Charges

Barclays Overseas Delivery Charges

In addition to those fees charged by Barclays for sending an international payment, the recipient bank may also charge a fee for receiving the payment (known as a “correspondents’ charge”). These charges can vary significantly according to the destination country. The charge may be a flat fee or a percentage fee.

In order to provide some certainty around recipient bank charges, Barclays has developed a pricing model called Barclays Overseas Delivery Charge (ODC) to replace correspondents’ charges. The advantages are that the remitter is able to calculate what charges are payable prior to payment (based on the country where the payment is being sent to) and can be certain that once this charge has been debited, no additional correspondents’ charges will be payable.

When Barclays receives an international payment instruction requesting Barclays to take all charges, the following charges will be debited to your account:

- Barclays fee for sending the payment
- Barclays ODC (if applicable)

Barclays ODC

Countries for which Barclays operates a simple charging structure, either flat fee or percentage-based. The maximum fee is no higher than £50. If you are sending payments to beneficiaries within these countries you may wish to negotiate with your beneficiary which charging option is selected. If you choose ‘charges shared’ or ‘beneficiary pays charges’ options then the Barclays ODC is not applicable.

A flat fee applies regardless of value of payment, except where a percentage charge applies. Where a percentage fee applies:

- (i) the minimum charge applies to amounts up to and including £2,500
- (ii) for payments for £2,500.01 and more, the greater of the percentage fee or the minimum will be charged up to the maximum amount.

Where payment is in Euros, please ensure you quote a valid SWIFT BIC or IBAN on your instruction. Where a valid SWIFT BIC or IBAN is not quoted an additional charge of £7 (or currency equivalent) will be incurred and charged to your account. This is our fee for repairing the payment on your behalf prior to it being sent. A £3 cover charge is levied for any payment made in US dollars (that is not debiting a US dollar account) and is going to a beneficiary outside the US.

The use of Barclays ODC may not be applicable for payments remitted in Euros or other European Economic Area (EEA) Member State currencies within the EEA* (please ask for further details). SEPA payments do not incur Overseas Delivery Charges.

The charging structure below covers the top 50 countries to which Barclays remits funds. This represents 98% of Barclays outward international payments. For countries not listed, refer to your Relationship Manager.

*EEA comprises the 27 EU Member States plus Iceland, Lichtenstein, Norway and Monaco.

SEPA comprises the 27 EU Member States plus Iceland, Lichtenstein, Monaco, Norway and Switzerland.

Notes:

- 1 Barclays cannot guarantee that the principal value of the transfer will be credited to the beneficiary with the same value date as requested, without further deduction of charges. Some countries apply charges to the remitting banks but also charge the beneficiaries by applying tariffs which are not disclosed to Barclays. This applies in many countries, particularly Spain, where charges are deducted, and France and Italy, where 'value days' are taken.
- 2 Payments to these countries are usually made in GBP or USD (not in the local currency).
- 3 Where charges are payable, these are, in Barclays experience, levied on the beneficiary.
